In The Classroom

This week we have continued to learn about the difference between wants and needs. We have been identifying our wants and needs and considering how communities can meet these needs. Medical services have been a focus this week as we have explored the roles of doctors, nurses, ambulance and hospitals. Students enjoyed making their own doctor/medical bags on Tuesday afternoon. These will be used for role-play experiences and to further understand these community helpers.

Shapes have been a focus during math time. We have been working with 2D and 3D shapes. Number facts and number values have also been continually revisited and practised. The Prep students have been gaining confidence with two digit numbers and the Year 1 and 2 students have been learning how to apply different problem solving strategies. English has featured activities to identify nouns (naming words), adjectives (describing words) and verbs (doing words). Students have been encouraged to consider word choices when writing about events from stories. We have also been practising how to orally retell narratives by using interesting language.

It has been great to see many students prepared for Sharing Time. There have been lots of great ideas for being healthy and safe. Pre-prep day was enjoyed by our little visitors. We have already seen them gain confidence in the classroom setting. We look forward to our Pre-preps joining us again next Friday, 8th of November. This time they will stay for big lunch and play break.

Enjoy the remainder of your week.

2 – 7 NEWS

The upper school students are continuing to plan a comic strip for the end of unit assessment. Some have excellent ideas for their dilemma and the characters they will create to solve the problem. The comic strip will be a computer presentation. Next week they will begin their computer presentation. The middle school students are preparing for their assessment after listening to a variety of eBooks. In Mathematics the senior students are learning how to find the volume of 3D shapes. Mrs Booth’s class have been multiplying numbers by multiples of ten. They have continued to complete operation for addition and subtraction. In Science students have continued their study of forces. Last week they were given the end of unit assessment task. Most students will need to collect a variety of things to enable them to complete their project. Next week we will begin the assessment tasks. In SOSE all students have been involved in research.

Helping children deal with fears

Many children have fears that surface at various times in their lives. Some, such as fear of the dark, are common in children at certain ages. Sometimes fears are triggered by an event or an unfortunate accident. If a child is bitten by a dog when young, he or she may be afraid of all dogs. Well-publicised tragedies such as the Port Arthur massacre can lead to a deep feeling of fear and anxiety about their personal safety.

Children can also learn fears from adults. The number of children who fear a trip to the dentist, just from their parents' reactions, is a source of consternation to that profession. However, parents can help their children deal with fears and the following suggestions may be useful.

Bright ideas

- Distinguish between caution and fear. Caution is the recognition of possible dangers and the consideration of ways of dealing with them safely. Fear can be debilitating as it generally leads to an avoidance of a situation and it diminishes the ability to cope.

- Investigate the source of the fear by listening to your child. Avoid dismissing their fears even if they are unfounded. Show them you understand how they feel and give them permission to express their feelings.

- Reassure them by telling them the truth. For instance, you cannot guarantee that a child will be totally safe but there are steps to take to reduce the likelihood of harm. Children's sense of security comes from routines and established rituals, so make sure that there are as few changes as possible in their lives particularly following a trauma.

- Teach them some skills to cope. Often children take solace in action, so give them ideas on how they might beat their fears. Children who are afraid of the dark often feel better knowing that they can turn on a night-light if needed.

- Display confidence in your child's ability to deal with their fears. Without being dismissive help children view the positive side of events and show your faith in their ability to cope. Just as children easily pick up parental anxiety they also learn optimism from their parents. It is amazing how catching a positive attitude is!

- Find someone to talk to about your children's fears. Swap ideas to reassure yourself that you have acted in your child's best interests.
